EXECUTIVE PROFILE & SELLING PHILOSOPHY

Muhammad Hassaan is an entrepreneur, venture builder, and aspiring business development professional pursuing his MBA at Masters' Union School of Business. With hands-on experience building ventures from 0 to 1, scaling skill communities, and managing consultative sales pipelines, Hassaan approaches business development as diagnostic problem-solving: listening closely, dissecting customer pain points, and tailoring commercial solutions that deliver measurable ROI.

"One thing I'm learning along the way is that sales can be genuinely rewarding. Not when you're trying to convince someone to buy something, but when you listen closely, understand what they actually need, and help them find the right solution. That's the side of sales I connect with most."
